Cumball, known by the present server name r/ReggieEsDios is a sparsely-active Discord server created and primarily operated by Filled With Nothing, known for being historically used as a launchpad for many LARPs and roleplayers. It is the successor to the Reggie Discord server created a period of time before the first server. Cumball has been revived 2 times throughout its history and still has a backup server which contains remnants of removed channels and features not present in the contemporary server. It was active for a few years before significantly dropping in activity in 2024, and achieving its current nearly-inactive state in 2025. A few active users still persist with a couple of roleplayers making exhaustive conversation with Filled and other members.

Origin

Cumball was first created at some point in 2020 by Filled With Nothing after he abandoned the Reggie

server for unknown reasons. It was created to be the functional successor to the Reggie server, and was an anarchy server due to the absence of clear rules. It was named Cumball after Filled With Nothing's version of the character Tippy from the Is the Order a Rabbit? (ご注文は う さ ぎ ですか?) Anime, which he likened to a sentient ball of semen.

Archives

Chat archives were a staple of Filled With Nothing's servers and the associated Discord bot Cheeseburger Bot developed by a former admin and close friend of his, meow, who also helped with the archiving efforts of JJHS. They would be done daily or so by Filled personally using the bot's archive command which would archive all messages present in the channel before deleting them. Although Discord messages don't actually get deleted this way, this process was instrumental in preventing bad actors from combing through a user's chat history for messages that broke Discord's Community Guidelines or Terms of Service to report and ban members of the server or threaten the existence of the server itself. Due to the frequent archival process, it was a common sight to see the general channel empty of all messages other than the pinned messages which were flagged to persist after archiving.

Presently, archives are done by users independently without the use of Cheeseburger Bot, which has been perpetually offline. Filled and others have been known to use the program Discord Chat Exporter to export the messages of Cumballs numerous channels.

First server

Second server

The second server is the current version of the server, being created after the other server became undesirable to use for some reason.

Other incarnations

Cumball had a Revolt instance³⁾ at one point that was short-lived and abandoned about a week after it began. It started due to Filled's increasing dissatisfaction with Discord's moderation and censorship.

Future

Cumball is planned to be abandoned and replaced with cunny.zone which has almost full feature parity with Discord, with many differences in implementation as well as look and feel. Filled has been openly frustrated about the limitations of Discord especially when it came to its AI moderation practices for years, which makes this an unsurprising move to active members.

Despite Filled and newer members like Yamsickle shilling cunny.zone (with the latter frequently streaming on the site), the website still remains very niche, obscure, and inactive, with members of the server new and old refusing to completely switch over.

Filled frequently threatens to delete the server, probably to garner attention from members to his announcements, and, jokes aside, he has been confirmed to seriously consider deleting the server on multiple occasions, but, as of writing, the server still exists. (August 2026)

cunny.zone

Cumball's planned successor, cunny.zone appears to have a few sparsely active users, but less total users overall, with some accounts being straight-up abandoned from either a lack of use or being unable to be used due to updates that changed the way accounts logged in and authenticated with cunny.zone. This new platform has been divisive among the active users of the server due to its buggy nature, authentication requirements, and no real incentive to go to the website due to its inactivity. The site's creator and main developer, Filled With Nothing shows drive to improve the website, but with no financial backing or active users from advertising, the site is assumed to die out eventually. However, many members predict that the website's content and user drought may improve long-term as some controversial and widely-shunned content creators could arrive to make full use of this platform's freedom-focused guidelines, however there are websites like it already with few things as of writing that set it apart from those other platforms.

Revolt is now known as Stoa, and is a self-hosted Discord Alternative with similar features, as well as look and feel.
