chad cat (shortened to chad) was a prolific roleplayer, meme reposter, and troll present in many Discord anarchy servers, most notably Cumball and JJHS. His most notable character is SEXHAVVER41, or just SEXHAVVER a chaotic troll and satirized version of himself who always spoke in all-caps, as if he was constantly shouting. He would begin roleplaying as the character in 2020 on Discord then eventually transition the character over to the platform Matrix exclusively, most likely because of his issues with keeping Discord accounts due to his chaotic and rule-breaking nature. His main roleplaying character would be SEXHAVVER, but he would remain on Discord out of character or to play other characters for his own entertainment or personal use.

He is a very divisive figure among LARP groups, who most frequently dislike him for his constant use of caps, hostility towards LARPs ³⁾, self-centered personality, and frequent trolling/harassment of anyone present in the chat, especially people he did not recognize or enjoy talking to.

Origin

Roleplaying

Relationship with !meow

chad was known to be very good friends with !meow even before he started roleplaying as SEXHAVVER, whose creation emboldened their friendship into best-friendship and even into his first love.

Their relationship would become so close that chad would travel to !meow's house to be with him in person. There they would spend every waking moment with each other and have sex multiple times. This would irreversibly change the relationship between the two, and even when they had to physically part eventually, echoes of what happened between them would spread throughout Cumball and its sphere of influence.

It was not to last, however, as they both parted ways citing their physical appearance and mental issues as reasons for parting. It's unknown as of writing if they they still talk, but it's assumed that they haven't done so much since !meow parted with Cumball and Filled With Nothing.

Relationship with Filled With Nothing

It's assumed that chad began his friendship with Filled after being introduced to him by !meow. They would frequently share memes, discuss LARPs, and poke fun at people they both knew about. The two would talk so much that Filled reported himself as having a sort of SEXHAVVER fatigue after hours and hours of his terrible takes and tired memes.

Retirement from RP

When SEXHAVVER left Cumball, his only remaining active server, it officially marked his retirement of the character, never being used on Cumball or other anarchy servers ever again.

Despite retiring SEXHAVVER, chad would still roleplay as the Discord user mcfaultya whom acted similar to SEXHAVVER but dropped the iconic caps-only syntax and dialed the extremism back. The character, even if roleplayed loosely was still a degenerate who reflected its roleplayer and would remain active for some time before being abandoned entirely.

Present day

chad is no longer active on Discord or Matrix, instead deciding whether by choice or not to remain on the down-low. He is still active on Steam, with Filled and him frequently chatting on there even in August 2026 about their shared interests.

Legacy

Despite being quite a divisive figure among roleplayers and being out-right hated by a notable few, chad's character SEXHAVVER was known to be one of the most infamous and beloved characters in Cumball's history, and one of the most active for over five years, witnessing its peak of activity in 2022 and its dwindling down into its contemporary state of sparse activity. He was so active in Cumball that he was responsible for most of its activity with his presence alone before his departure.

His character was active for over 5 years, enduring the end of JJHS and the beginning and eventual end of Cumball as a popular place for roleplayers to launch their characters and roleplay in, which makes HAVVER one of the longest continuously active LARPs until his retirement in 2025. Cumball members new and old make mention of him to this day, a testament to his lasting impact as one of the key active people of Cumball.
